Classification: Pat McClernon

Pat and his wife Deb live on Sunset Lake, north of town. They have three children, one a college graduate, one in college and one who graduated from high school last June. He is from the Red River Valley in western MN. His hometown of Tenney, MN had 23 people when he left and it now has 6 people. Sometimes two cars pass in town during rush hour. Pat has 3 brothers and 2 sisters. He was an exchange student to Melk, Austria in his youth and travelled the countryside in a VW microbus with a nice 8-track tape player. He earned a liberal arts degree from St. Johns and an engineering degree from the University of MN where he was a teaching assistant and a research assistant, as well as a member of the professional engineering fraternity, Theta Tau. Pat worked for 3M for 25 years and is now "livin' the dream" of 80 hours work weeks running his own company. He bought a company called Control House, moving the company from the western suburbs to WBL and the Birch Lake Professional building. Pat is a lifelong learner and traveler and is looking forward to his stint as WBL Rotary Club president in 2021. Great having you in the club, Pat. Thanks for all you do!

Program: Bill Rust presents Chris Rust, US Bank Stadium Structure

Proud father Bill Rust's son Chris works for Danny's Construction Company, Inc. or DCCI, a company that specializes in structural steel erecting. They erect the structural iron which supports bridges, buildings and sports/ event facilities around the country. Chris spoke about DCCI's part in the new Vikings stadium. The company employed 200-400 union ironworkers for this build. The roof is supported by a super truss of which the heaviest component was 380 tons. Queenspost trusses run off the super truss. The erection plan started in 2D on paper and moved to 3D planning and on to 4D, the fourth dimension being time, to help with the precision of the plan. Weights of the iron components affect the size of the cranes and cables and the crawler used on the job. Much of the heavy equipment is rented and needs specialized operators. They were able to build most of the assemblies and parts flat on the ground before lifting them to be pinned and bolted into position. Crane work and cables had to allow precision assembly with tolerances of fractions of an inch. Ironworkers tied in to "rat lines" when working high off the ground to put the structure together. When supports were removed and the super truss took on the full weight of the structure, it flexed just under one foot. In addition to Chris's descriptions of the project. the slides and videos he showed were fascinating and made for a very interesting presentation

ANNOUNCEMENTS

TASTE OF WHITE BEAR LAKE We had a wonderful day for our annual Taste of White Bear Lake on Saturday. I would like to thank all of our Club members for helping to make this a great event for our community. Each year this event gets a little bigger and raises a little more money for our club. It is successful because of the strong support our Club members provide to make this event happen. I want to personally thank each and every one of you for your assistance in making this a successful event and thanks to all of the volunteers who supported us on the day of the event. Without all of you, the Taste of White Bear Lake would not be possible. Cheers to our 7th Annual Taste of White Bear Lake being completed!
